

Honoring the Service of our Nation's Military and Veterans

Senator John Cornyn learned the value of patriotic service to our country from his father who spent 31 years in the military, beginning as a B-17 pilot in World War II. Growing up in an Air Force family and moving from base to base, he saw firsthand the caliber of those who dedicate themselves to defending freedom at home and abroad.

Senator Cornyn knows that our nation can never do enough to repay those who have selflessly served and sacrificed for our country. He is dedicated to making certain that our nation's active duty, National Guard, and Reserve military forces get the best training, equipment, and education, and that our veterans receive the health care access, services, and benefits they deserve.

Over the past six years, Senator Cornyn has steadfastly supported our veterans and military personnel and strongly advocated on their behalf.
